

A Song

Where You Play

How the chords and licks of the song fit together on the fretboard.

The 'system' that ties them together.

Why?

Random chords and notes are not re-usable.

A 'system' can be re-used for other songs.

If you learn the system, you can learn other songs more easily.

How You Play

The physical actions necessary to play the guitar in the way the song requires.

Why?

How you play the strings affects your tone, which affects the sound of the song.

You'll never sound like you want if you play with the wrong technique.

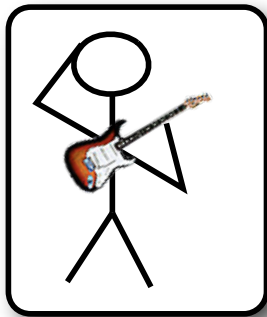

What You Play

The specific notes that you play to play this song.

Why?

Learn the specific licks and chords of this song so you can reuse them when improvising, or playing other songs.
